

is a support and social group for Men who have Sex with Men, however they describe themselves, be it Gay, Bi, Queer or straight.

Why might gay and bisexual men need support?

DHIVERSE often receive requests for information and support from gay and bisexual men who feel isolated, rejected, lonely or who find it difficult to access any kind of 'gay community' space where they can socialize and network.

Sometimes gay and bisexual men have experienced overt homophobia in the workplace or from their family and friends; sometimes they may experience a simple lack of awareness of their specific issues and needs.

There is national and local evidence that tell us that Gay and Bisexual men suffer from particularly high levels of sexual ill-health, mental health problems and alcohol/drug use.

What is INTERACT?

The aim of Interact is to provide a safe and friendly space where you can talk about your experiences, find out about what 'community' events there are out there, and overcome any barriers you might experience in accessing the kind of social/support networks you want to be part of.
